

Meet IndyFeral's Medical Director:

Medical Director
Carolyn Kacocho, DVM
Veterinary School: Purdue University

Dr. Carolyn Kacocho graduated from Purdue University in 2000. After graduation, she worked at a 24 hour emergency clinic in Louisville, KY. While working in Louisville she volunteered for Alley Cat Advocates, the local Trap-Neuter-Return (TNR) group and the Woodstock Animal Foundation for 5 years before returning to the Indianapolis area. She currently works as an associate veterinarian at VCA Swengel Animal Hospital. She enjoys spending time with her dog Toby and her 5 cats. Her hobbies include knitting, reading and spending time outdoors.

In her capacity as medical director, Dr. Kacocho provides oversight for the IndyFeral clinic and the medical treatment for any cat requiring long-term care.
